My three weeks at Strive was the best three weeks ever. Everything that I thought was the way to properly fill out applications and look for jobs just affirmed me here that I was doing it all wrong. These past three weeks at Strive have been so helpful for me. Strive has helped me break out of my shell and has helped me open up more. Strive has also helped me stand up for myself and to not be so afraid to stick up for what I believe. Being at Strive was the best thing I ever did cause it was just what I needed to boost up my self-esteem. I thank Tirzah for the motivation she gave us. I also thank her for pushing me to my full potential and helping me reach my full potential. In all Strive has been able to motivate me to keep looking for work and not giving up. Strive in the past three weeks have definitely been the best three weeks in my entire life. I can honestly say that I will miss everyone when we graduate. The support that everyone has given to each other.
