

Dear Strive;

Over the past four weeks I have learned a lot about my self, the way things have changed as far as looking for work, been challenged on my way of studying and preparation, and learning how to sell myself. This program is something I would recommend to any one wanting or needing help to improve or make themselves more marketable in this competitive job search world.

It has also taught me that some times in order to find or land a job you have to be creative, inovative and be on top of your game. It helped me realize where I was ~~strong~~ strong at and where I needed to improve. Also learned some new things about my self and my abilities to learn or improve on what I know also discovered how to write a decent resume and say the right things on an interview. They took us through the steps of how to get a job to the proper steps on how to keep a job with your soft skills

In this time I have learned some things about not only myself, but about how things are now in the work world. Even about what has changed since I came back. They have also help me develop some things I didn't know were in me too.

Even though I have a job and a resume this class has showed me that its a whole new ballgame out here and in order to compete you must step your game up and research, write and practice to get it right. I have also come to think of the rest of my classmates as a team to help me get through and understand that I'm not "ALONE!!!!"
